Beef Industry Safety Summit

April 5–7 • Frisco, Texas • Celebrating 25 Years

Share beef safety research from any funding source—including ongoing work.

The Beef Industry Safety Summit is recognized as a premier event that brings industry leaders and safety professionals together from all sectors of the beef production, processing, and marketing chain to focus on strategies to improve beef safety. As part of the annual Beef Industry Safety Summit, the presentation of safety research results plays a key role in filling knowledge gaps and identifying new research needs so safety strategies can be adjusted to incorporate the latest information.

The Beef Industry Safety Summit will be held on April 5th – 7th and is celebrating 25 years! Scientists from universities, USDA, and/or companies are invited to present research results from projects funded by ALL funding sources, not just The Beef Checkoff. Progress reports for ongoing projects (e.g., USDA-funded multi-year projects) are welcome, even if the work is incomplete.
